Web Site Links

These web site links have been researched, evaluated, and annotated by Seminole Community College Librarians. The Librarians have specifically selected these Web sites to meet the research needs of Seminole Community College students

Art Cyclopedia: The Fine Art Search Engine
http://wwww.artcyclopedia.com  8/09

This site provides numerous references to web sites where users can view artists' works online, articles about their work, and other sites containing biographical information about the artists. The search engine itself allows users to search by name, medium, subject, and nationality, and provides a separate category for women artists. They claim to cover over 2,300 art sites, and offer over 95,000 links to an estimated 180,000 artworks by 8,200 renowned artists.

Art Daily
www.artdaily.com  8/09

Art Daily prides itself on being the “first art newspaper on the Internet”. In addition to keeping the art community abreast of news, trends, and events, their web site acts as a directory to resources concerning hundreds of artists, galleries, museums, and images.

ArtLex Art Dictionary
http://www.artlex.com/  8/09

ArtLex is an online dictionary containing entries for over 3,600 art terms. Supporting images, pronunciation notes, quotations and cross-references are available within the dictionary. The provided links to other sources are also of value to art students and researchers.

Mother of All Art History Links Page
http://www.art-design.umich.edu/mother/  8/09

A simple, but extremely thorough directory to art history pages on the Internet, this page has everything from research resources and image collections to information about fine arts schools and programs freely linked.

World Wide Arts Resources
http://www.wwar.com/  8/09

WWAR provides coverage of contemporary art, art news, art history, and contemporary artist and portfolio galleries. For artists, brief biographical information is provided with links to museum pages that host images of their classic works. A great number of other resources are linked throughout the entries for each topic or artist.
